The grand fair of St. Thomas' congregation opened in the basement of the church last evening. There was a very large attendance, the visitors being not only from Archbald, but from every town in this vicinity. The basement was resplendent with decorations and everywhere there was evi-dences of rare taste and skill. Not less interesting than the decorations was the large and varied line of arti-cles displayed. There are several par-lor and bed room suites, a piano and other articles equally valuable on exhibition. The two bands were present and the programme observed was appreciated by the large audience which witnessed it. Each evening during the continuance of the fair there will be features of interest and on Wednesday night particularly a noteworthy entertainment will be given.

The Knights of Father Mathew at a meeting held yesternay donated $50 to the fair. The Catholic Mutual Benefit association has given a valuable side-board and Division 6, Ancient Order of Hibernians, has given $25. The members of the congregation have also gen-erously donated valuable articles and Professor Sprague, of Philadelphia, a promotor of university extension, lectured on Shakespeare in the principal's room of the graded building on Saturday night. The audience was large and appreciative and would have been much larger had it been generally known that Mr. Spragus. Was. coming. known that Mr. Sprague was coming here. There was some uncertainty as to the time of his arrival and Professor Davis, under whose patronage he came, not wishing to disappoint anyone, did not advertise it as extensively as he otherwise should have done. The theme and the manner in which it was discussed satisfied every one. Mr. Sprague seemed to have a thorough knowledge of his subject, and imparted it to his audience with remarkable ease and grace. After the discussion an organization was formed to promote the extension idea. Pro-fessor Davis was chosen president, Dr. Van Doren treasurer, and Alice Sweeny secretary. It is creditable to the literary taste of the audience to say that nearly one hundred ladies and gentlemen expressed a willingness to buy tickets for the course of lectures which will be given. When Mr. Sprague next visits us, on Monday, the 24th, he will be greeted by an audience which, if not quite so large as that of Saturday, will, at least, be more prefitable. Rev. Thomas Lucas of St. Thomas' Church, delivered a lecture on "The Church and Progress," in Carbondale last Thursday evening, which won high praise from all who heard it. The Carbondale papers were highly com plimentary in referring to the lecture and published long reports of it. William Mehl, a former resident of this borough, died at his home in Olyphant on Friday after a long illness. His remains were taken to his old home on Hill street, from which place the funeral was held on Sunday afternoon. Services were held in the Lutheran Church and interment took place in the Protestant cemetery.

The Ledyard block, on Lincoln avenue, had a narrow escape on Saturday night from being destroyed by fire. One suite of rooms in the block is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Breese. In the evening Mrs. Breese was out and Mr. Breese was taking care of the parlor stove. In order to prevent the ashes from dropping on the carpet, he spread a newspaper in front of the tove, and, after caring for the fire, he left the room and forgot to pick the paper up. When Mrs. Breese returned in the evening she was greatly surprised to find a newspaper burned to a black erisp, lying in front of the stove club will be held at Weisenfluh's hall Through some providential way the this evening. by live coals running through the bot tom draft on the stove.

The home of Mrs. Isaac Sheppard on Railroad street was the scene of a pretty wedding yesterday, when her daughter, Miss Cora A., was united in wellock to Robert Pierce, of Wilkes-Barre. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Barras, of the Episcopal church, and was witnessed by a large number of friends. The maids of honor were Leo Sheppard and Margaret Kyte, and the flower boy, Howard Kyte. The seremony took place in the parlor, the wedding party standing be-neath an umbrella of autumn leaves, and the wedding march was played by Miss Mae Sheppard. The bride was attired in a gown of cream silk with pearly trimpings. Mr. and Mrs. Player pearl trimmings. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce left on an extended wedding tour.

The first grand Republican rally of the season was held last evening in the Keystone Hall. Previous to the opening of the meeting the Leek Cornet Band paraded Main street. At 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order. The hall was packed and when Hon, Galusha A Grow was introduced a mighty shout that lasted for several minutes went. The speaker detailed at length the condition, both financial and commercial, of the country since the Democratic party got into power. He touched upon the tariff, the inexpacity of the present administration of the repudiation of them by Presi dent Cleveland by his refusal to sign the only law of any significance they passed since March 4, 1861. During his address the speaker was repeatedly applauded and in a few instances a few of his auditors became very much ex cited. After occupying about one and one-half hours Mr. Grow made way for other speakers who treated on the local issues of the campaign.

The council held a special session in the town hall last evening. There were present Councilmen Lynett, Donnelly, Reap, Kearney, Henningan, Tigue and Mangan.
